

To the FTC:

Please do not weaken the effect of Indiana's Do Not Call Law. Telephone communications are not meant to be advertising devices. I already have several of those in my home. They are called the television, the computer, the radio, and the mailbox. In each of those instances, I have the option of when to turn on those devices, or read my mail. I don't have that option with the telephone. The marketer decides when I will hear their pitch. Please allow me to decide when and where I receive advertising in my home.

Thank you for your consideration of my opinion

Tom McCool